DIRECTIONS FOR GROWING

Gladioli will grow in almost any soil. Plant in a sunny place away from walls or trees about four or five inches deep and about the same distance apart. Plant when the ground is warm.

Commercial fertilizer is the best for them, such as ground bone, commercial sheep dressing, wood ashes, etc.

Cultivate often. Keep soil loose and free from weeds.

When cutting flowers always leave three or four leaves, as the bulbs will not develop otherwise.

Dig in fall, cutting off all the tops. Dry in open air if possible, then store away in a cool frost-proof cellar.
